Quality ABA Professionals

Here at Behavioral Initiatives, it is our mission to provide quality Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) services to improve the lives of individuals with autism spectrum disorder, developmental disabilities, and behavioral challenges. We love to celebrate all of our kiddos milestones, no matter how big or small. This past month, two of our BI students graduated from our Applied Behavior Analysis Program. It is in moments like this that we get to witness the very thing that we aim for, and that is to improve the lives of those we serve and their families. To our graduates, be bold, be courageous, be your best. This is just the beginning of many bigger achievements in your life. We are all so proud of you!

Summertime means having fun! Our kiddos have been doing so amazing with their therapy, that it is only right that we celebrate all of their achievements. One thing that we learned this month is that our kids work hard, and celebrate even harder! We opened up the month of July with the Summer Lovin' Spirit Week. Our kids had a blast designing tie-dye shirts, recreating looks from past decades, and dancing at our first-ever dance party! We even had a water day for spirit week, and the kids loved it so much that for the remainder of the Summer we are having water days every week. We know the kids are enjoying the activities and we hope you are loving seeing our post on social media of all the events. Below are some of our favorite moments from this past month!

BI Superstars of the Month

Nicholas A.

Nicholas started with his new therapist in March, 2021 while attending virtual school. He started off as a shy quiet student and has now opened up to speaking with other students, his teachers, and other therapists. Every morning Nicholas looks forward to his sessions and can speak about his morning. He is Broderick O.

Brody has shown impressive progress during the month of July. He has especially shown improvement with intraverbals, where he independently uses carrier phrases such as "I want" to request his juice and preferred activities/ toys. When offered an item he does not want, he responds with "no thank you". He independently cleans up now working on mastering his prepositions, his writing skills, and speaking with clear and complete sentences. Way to go Nicholas!

after finishing his snacks and puts them away in his lunch bag. During circle time he sits nicely while being attentive to the teacher and responding independently to the days of the week and the month when asked. We are so proud of this superstar!

ATTENTION PARENTS!

We are fundraising money for the event which helps promote solutions, across the spectrum and throughout the life span, for the needs of individuals with autism and their families. We will also love for our parents to join us on our walk for Autism Speaks. If you are interested in participating and/or fundraising please email info@behavioralinitiatives.com.
